

CADY CARLSON DESIGNS – 2016 Jewelry Style Forecast

Whew! - the recent holiday season was hectic, but I took a few days off before the new year, so now am rested and looking forward to a fun and busy 2016. FYI –

On its way in: custom charms, black metal (CCD design example, left), yellow gold, raw diamonds, multiple rings on one hand

Outward bound: turquoise, bangle bracelets, hoop earrings

Celebrate Valentine’s Day with Style

Whether your special someone is a family member, a best friend or a significant other, you can never go wrong with jewelry! Now is a great time to plan for your Valentine to have something in hand by February 14. Would your sweetheart perhaps enjoy a monogrammed art deco-style phone case, a set of custom cuff links, or even a CCD gift certificate toward upcycling something just languishing in a drawer?

FEATURED:

One of my fav clients, Pat, had the idea to take several single charms she had accumulated through the years and put them all together making this one-of-a-kind necklace. I then designed the concept and assembled the charms into what you see, left.

Check out these commissioned slate moose coasters ($20 for a set of 4) I designed and etched at the FabLab for one happy customer’s Christmas gifts to neighbors and friends.

These form-folded sterling silver pendants have been extremely popular – each one is a bit different. Hang it from a ribbon, a chain, or even a strand of pearls! Prices begin at $50, depending on size, thickness, and current silver prices.

In the News...

If you are going to the popular Bishop Kelly auction April 9, 2016, look for my donated gift certificate and help raise money for a good cause. Charity Auction Season lasts through May, and CCD is donating charitable gift certificates toward design and modeling of a jewelry item or other small object – if you are on a donations committee give me a call for details... Mark your calendar for the next Brady District First Friday Art Crawl, February 5. While there stop in at the AHHA gift shop to see my latest pieces....

OSU fans may appreciate I'm collaborating with Oklahoma State University's Art Department to teach a four-day student workshop in Stillwater on Rhino, a computer design software commonly used for jewelry...

Yay to me for my art deco phone case that recently won a promotional contest sponsored by Shapeways (the world's leading 3D printing company).
